How to check a massage therapist in Ontario

In Ontario, only people registered with the College of Massage Therapists of Ontario (CMTO) may call themselves a Registered Massage Therapist (RMT) or massage therapist. Checking takes a couple of minutes and is free.

Why check

- The title is protected by law: registration means the person has met the College's training and exam requirements.
- Health plans expect receipts from a registered massage therapist.
- Registered massage therapists follow the College's Standards of Practice.

Step by step

1. Go to the College's public register, "Find an RMT": cmto.ca.thentiacloud.net/webs/cmto/register
2. Type the therapist's last name and search.
3. Open the right person's profile.
4. Check their status: are they authorized to practise?
5. Look at their registration details and the languages they speak.
6. Check the conduct section for any history the College has published.

Can't find someone?

- Check the spelling, or try a first name too.
- Ask the therapist for the exact name they're registered under.
- If someone uses the title RMT and isn't on the register, you can tell the College: cmto.com
